NORWAY - MAINE

Mount Vernon, The Home of Washington.

BY J. E. JONES.

A pretty little story of visits to Mount Vernon on the Potomac—"Impressions and sentiments like yours and mine," explains the author to those who have seen our country's greatest shrine.

Bound in colonial blue and buff, with hand illuminated cover design, and colonial ribbon book mark; profusely illustrated with handsome half-tones and pen drawings, it is a dainty and invaluable reminder that will instantly appeal to every person who has been to Mount Vernon, while to those who have not had that good fortune this clever, happy little story of our beloved George and Martha gives a clearer view and understanding of their colonial home, which is today the pride of Virginia and the Nation.

As a souvenir or gift book, for young or old, there is nothing to approach the elegance of this little volume, and it will make one feel more like a patriotic American to possess it.

STAY ON THE FARM.

ALLAN PRESSLEY WILSON,
Director Society for Social Advancement,
Baltimore, Md.

For years we have been reading in the farm and daily papers various phases of the "Back to the Farm" movement. There is hardly a paper of any standing but what has published an alluring commendation of the value of the cityman giving up that with which he is familiar to take up something about which he knows absolutely nothing; or, if he was born and raised in the country, something his long years of absence from the farm has caused him to forget. Fiction has even taken the matter in hand and books like "Driven Back to Eden" have been written to prove that a bookkeeper may end his days on a once-abandoned farm, bringing it to a high state of cultivation and providing richly for himself and family in his old age.

I have no desire to detract from the "Back to the Farm" movement, for I know it has its advantages, but I would propose a movement that has in it all the elements that go to make up a successful undertaking. I call it the "Stay on the Farm" movement and its object is to encourage our young men and women to stay on the farm rather than give it up for the doubtful benefits of city or town. How well do I know the lure of the city! How bright and pleasing is the picture of comfort and means afforded by occupations to be had in the city. But even though every such picture were painted in truthful colors, and there could be found occupation for every untrained boy and girl who leaves the country to live in town, the colors soon fade and grow dim with the consequent wear and tear of city life. Hot, stuffy living and working quarters soon remind one that he has left behind him one of Nature's restorers, pure, fresh air; the elastic step soon degenerates into a drag and one longs for the open air.

Again, the morals of the city are not up to the standard of those one knows at home and manifold temptations force themselves upon you until frequent experience with them causes them to lose their terror. Raised in God's country, the social evil is an unknown quantity; in the city, it is everywhere present. Little children laugh and jest about "affinities" and other shameful relations; young men and women accept such things as necessary to city life and the older people are not embarrassed by these conditions. Instinct and passion require fuel for their devastating flames and the young and inexperienced country youth must be had to replenish the supply of those who find an early death in shame and degradation.

How may the "Stay on the Farm" movement be fostered? I answer that the farm must be made attractive and remunerative to the young people so they will not leave it. Give them a share in the receipts; see that they have some pocket money; provide pleasures and amusements to overcome the dull, monotonous grind that seems to be the inevitable lot of many a young man and young woman. The aim of the "Stay on the Farm" movement is the encouragement offered to farmers to surround their sons and daughters with such pleasures and amusements, and give them such liberties as will make their leaving their country home uninviting. In this the farmer has an able friend in the march of progress made by the rural free delivery, the rural telephones that stretch across the rolling fields, the school house community centers, the Grange and other farmers' clubs. Given the encouragement of the leaders of the Church, the teachers and professional men and women, these organizations will prove valuable aids in the accomplishment of the desired end.

A WORD OF APPRECIATION.

It is wonderful how much more we all can do when we know we are appreciated. The greatest and smallest of us will work with a lighter heart and will not object to a little overtime if we hear the cheerful words "Well done." We do not realize that we are selfish, but it is a difficult matter for some of us to speak a word of appreciation; the faculty of appreciation seems dead. Tell your overworked, struggling neighbor that she is doing good work for her family and see her face brighten. We can be helpful without it costing us anything. Try it.—H. M.

THE YOUNG FARMER'S NEED OF A YEARLY BUSINESS INVENTORY.

The young farmer who is endeavoring to build up a more efficient and profitable business seldom retains much cash. When money is received he buys a new implement, another animal, improves a building, or makes payments on bills for things bought on credit. During the course of the year he may receive and pay out large sums of money, leaving almost no cash at the end of the year. The annual returns may seem to have been only a fair living for himself and family, whereas the farm business may have turned a good profit, which was invested from month to month. Hence it is important for the farmer's guidance and encouragement that he make an annual inventory of his farm investments. This inventory should be a detailed list, with values, of everything used in the farm business, including land, buildings, live stock, machinery and tools, produce for feed or sale, supplies, bills receivable, and cash; also a list of all accounts and bills owing. The difference between the total assets and debts shows the net farm worth.

A study of two successive inventories of a farm in New York State illustrates how one young farmer on 100 acres prospered regardless of the fact that he had almost no cash at the end of the year. The total assets at the beginning of the year amounted to $12,000 and at the end of the year, an increase of $10,000. The increase in live stock, machinery, and tools, and more produce held for sale amounted to $1,750, but this was partially offset by the cash decrease of $700. The farm indebtedness was also reduced by $250, thus making a total increase in net worth to the farm business of $10,000. The inventory values covered all depreciation and increase in values, so that this $10,000 was net increase in the value of the farm investment. It means that this same was saved from the year's business after all farm expenses had been paid, including interest on borrowed money and all living expenses. The amount of cash at the end of the year, $100, proved to be no indication of the success of the year's business.

MARSHALL DISTRICT.

BRYANT'S POND.

Mrs. Ellen E. (Davis) Bowker, wife of James L. Bowker of this village, passed away Monday evening. She had been in poor health for many months and had been gradually failing through the present winter. She was an estimable woman beloved in her family and had many friends among her associates in the town and village. Mrs. Bowker was a native of Sharon, Mass., but her parents later moved to Maine. She was married in 1866 to James L. Bowker, who survives her. Of their family of seven children all are now living.

Woodstock's oldest resident, Elton G. Whitman, died in South Woodstock, Thursday, March 11. Mr. Whitman was the son of Rev. Jacob and Dorcas Berry Whitman and was born in Woodstock, July 31, 1823. His parents were among the early settlers of the town, coming here from Buckfield and locating near the old County road. In 1910 Mr. Whitman married Lucy B. Swan and resided on one of the homesteads of his father until 1881, when he sold the farm to the town and moved to North Paris. Mrs. Whitman died in 1913, and of their family of ten children, six are now living. The funeral was held Sunday afternoon at the Whitman chapelhouse, attended by Rev. E. H. Stover, pastor of the Baptist Church in this village, of which Mr. Whitman and his wife had been members almost since their organization. Three extra jurors were drawn here Tuesday by order of the court to be in attendance at the Pratt murder trial. Their names are William S. Davis, Guy Henningway and Dana O. Dudley.

James Hayford and Gladys Davis are at their homes for a week's vacation. Mr. Parker was in town last week to visit his son, Ray, who is staying with his aunt, Mrs. S. P. Davis.

Miss Gladys Carter is a guest of Mrs. Lena Bartlett.

Mrs. N. H. Howard called at L. A. Roberts' Monday.

Mrs. C. P. Saunders is able to be about the house again.

L. A. Roberts was in Rumford, Saturday.

F. Saunders collected a car of phosphate last week at Bethel station. Smith Bros. are sawing long lumber at their mill.

John Morse recently killed two pigs and a calf to take to Rumford market.

WHAT FOLLOWED.

The lesson in history was in progress, and in vain the teacher coaxed her class to answer. At last she brightened up. She had reached the star pupil of her little class. "Now, Tommy," she said, "Mary followed Edward the Sixth, and who followed Mary?" Yes, Tommy knew that and his answer was swift, "Her little lamb, teacher," he shouted, triumphantly. — Louisville "Herald."

Mrs. Geo. W. Brown delightfully entertained a joint meeting of the East Hartford Ladies' Circle and the W. C. T. U. at her pleasant home last Friday.

At the noon hour 60 sat down to a beautiful circle dinner. The business meeting of the circle was held and $3.25 added to the treasury. The meeting of the W. C. T. U. was called to order and after a short program by the children, Mrs. Alton G. Quimby, State president, gave a short address, touching different phases of the W. C. T. U. work in Maine. The following officers were elected:—1st vice president, Mrs. Ellen Bonney; 2nd vice president, Mrs. Lydia Corliss; Supt. scientific temperance instruction in schools, Mrs. Leon Mitchell Berry; Supt. temperance department in Sunday Schools, Mrs. D. T. Bryant; press Supt., Mrs. Leon M. Berry; Supt. literature, Mrs. Lottie Merrill; Supt. flower mission department, Elva Brown. The president of the W. C. T. U. is Mrs. Geo. Brown.

The newly organized W. C. T. U. in Hartford has a membership of 20. The next meeting will be held at the Union schoolhouse, April 17th.

The second annual speaking contest of the Canton High school was held Friday evening at the Universalist Church, a crowd being in attendance.

The program opened with excellent music by an orchestra consisting of Lyman Ellis, violin; Ansel Ellis, cornet; and Mrs. S. B. Ellis, piano. After a prayer by Rev. A. G. Murray and response, the contest commenced with Shirley Bailey as the first speaker. He was followed by Edwin Staples, Miss Katherine Hollis, Donald Adams and Chas. Bartlett. A concert solo by Ansel Ellis was next enjoyed, with Mrs. Ellis at the piano. The other speakers were Arthur Tucker, Ansel Ellis, Miss Geo. Woodward and Clara Lallin.

While the judges were in conference, Mrs. Lallin was furnished by the orchestra.

The contest was a close one, all performing their parts in an excellent manner. Two sets of Hawthorne's works were given as prizes by the school board, which consists of G. L. Wallin, H. E. Patterson and Dr. F. W. Morse.

Miss Geo. Woodward received the prize for girls and Arthur Tucker for boys, Chas. Bartlett receiving honorable mention. The judges were P. H. Booker, principal of Leavitt Institute; V. K. Brackett, principal of Buckfield High School, and Miss Eva B. Springer, the Canton Point school teacher. The prizes were presented by Mr. Booker in a short speech. Geo. L. Wallin presided. Much credit is due the principal of the Canton High school, Donald B. Partridge, for the successful exhibition.

Some Forms of Rheumatism Curable

Rheumatism is a disease characterized by pains in the joints and in the muscles. The most common forms are: Acute and Chronic Rheumatism, Rheumatic Headaches, Sciatic Rheumatism and Lumbago. All of these types can be helped absolutely by applying some good liniment that penetrates. An application of Sloan's Liniment two or three times a day to the affected part will give instant relief. Sloan's Liniment is good for pain, and especially Rheumatic Pain, because it penetrates to the seat of the trouble, soothes the inflamed part and draws the pain.

"Sloan's Liniment is all medicines." Get a 25¢ bottle now. Keep it handy in case of emergency. Adv.

Severe Head Pains
Caused By Catarrh
Cured By Peruna

I Feel It a Duty to Mankind
to Let All Know of My Cure.
Peruna
Did It.

Mr. W. H. Chaney, R. F. D. 2, Sutherland, Pittsylvania Co., Va., writes: "For the past twelve months I have been a sufferer from catarrh of the head. Since taking four bottles of your Peruna I feel like a different person altogether. The severe pains in my head have disappeared, and my entire system has been greatly strengthened."

"This is my first testimonial to the curative qualities of any patent medicine. I feel it a duty to mankind to let them know of Peruna. In my estimation it is the greatest medicine on earth for catarrh."

We have thousands of testimonials like Mr. Chaney's. Some of them were cured after years of suffering and disappointment in finding a remedy.

Send for free copy of "Mile of Life." The Peruna Co., Columbus, Ohio. Those who object to liquid medicines can now procure Peruna Tablets.

WILL CONSCIENTIOUS WOMEN HAVE TO VOTE?

There are those who are thinking that the vote, as exercised by women, will be necessary to right some evident wrongs. It is to be hoped that a consideration of the following article may help the progress.

The Woman's Journal publishes this list of 10 common-sense questions to which, it is claimed, no opponent of suffrage has ever given a satisfactory answer:

1. If equal suffrage is a bad thing, why has it spread from the state that first adopted it to its neighboring states, all adopting one another?

2. If the majority of the people anywhere are dissatisfied with it, why is there no move to repeal it?

3. If it really matters to neglect their children, why is the lowest infant death rate in the world found in New Zealand?

4. If it increases poverty, why did Colorado grant it? Does the cost before women were given the ballot and only 1917 the year after?

5. If it is demoralizing, why did or is it out of 100 ministers and editors in the suffrage states replying to John Ward Howe's letter of inquiry give no unfavorable answer?

6. If the capacity of women are equal, why have only about 1 per cent of the women in the United States joined the world's largest national association opposed to woman suffrage according to that organization's own figures?

7. If the majority of women are opposed to woman suffrage, where are all the anti-suffrage associations? Has been gathering a majority of women against suffrage ever since 1893, was has it succeeded in the years in accumulating the names of only about 3 per cent of the women of the state?

8. Among the millions of citizens in the enfranchised states, why have the opponents of equal suffrage thus far failed to find a dozen respectable men who agree with them on names and addresses that at the time they had replied?

9. From the largest chamber of commerce to the smallest coming circle, why has no organization of any kind in a suffrage state ever passed a resolution condemning it?

10. Unless men people like it after they have experience of it why do its opponents insist that, once granted, it can never be recalled?

To which this question is added: Why do the judges, officers of probate, and other dignitaries members of society fight so desperately to keep the vote from women?

WHAT SOME WOMEN SAY ABOUT SOME QUESTIONS.

Whether intelligent women may be to the betterment of the country's welfare or not there is one subject upon which women in general are in accord. The welfare of the children.

They are broader in their vision, deeper in their feelings, than is the average man.

And only the women who have experienced the joys of motherhood can appreciate the value of the child.

When the child is born, the mother's life is a new life. The child is a new life. The mother's life is a new life.

When the child is born, the mother's life is a new life. The child is a new life. The mother's life is a new life.

WE WILL CELEBRATE
OUR NINTH ANNIVERSARY
BY SPECIAL VALUE GIVING
IN ALL DEPARTMENTS.

The big event commences Saturday, March 20th to continue to and include Saturday, March 27th.

Nine years in Portland -- nine years of successful Merchandising. Last year, although generally considered an off year, was to us, the largest business year in our whole nine years in Portland. The future looks bright too.

We're going to celebrate and we want everyone to help us.

In order to make this event of interest to everyone and give all our friends and customers a personal reason to help us celebrate, we are going to conduct a special seven days campaign of extraordinary value giving. Every department in this great store will contribute its quota of the special offerings -- all will find the very lines in which they are interested, at very substantially reduced prices. Home furnishings, ladies' and children's apparel, floor coverings, etc.

Take a day off

And come to Portland and this store during our Anniversary Week. Thousands of Dollars of our regular profits will be distributed among our customers in the reduced prices which will prevail. Come in on Saturday, March 20th or any day later up to and including Saturday, March 27th.

PORTEOUS, MITCHELL & BRAUN CO.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

"As I see it, friends of waterways have no reason for discouragement in the present situation."

So said Hon. Joseph B. Ransdell, Senator from Louisiana, President of the National Rivers and Harbors Congress, and one of the strongest believers in, and advocates of, the improvement of waterways in the country.

"The Rivers and Harbors bill which has just been enacted," continued Senator Ransdell, "is a very much more comprehensive measure than is generally understood. In the first place, it provides a direct jump sum appropriation of $25,000,000 to be expended under the direction of the Secretary of War and the supervision of the Chief of Engineers in order to maintain a list of river and harbor projects in connection to give local service and for passing improvements thereon."

"It has not always been possible to expend the funds provided for river and harbor work within the year that they are appropriated, so that there is always standing to the credit of certain projects sums of money which are not immediately needed, so, in the second place, the bill authorizes the Secretary of War, upon the recommendation of the Chief of Engineers, to transfer such funds to other projects for which money is immediately needed, up to a total of $5,000,000."

"Furthermore, the Senate's bill will authorize nearly $1,000,000-$3,000,000 to be exact for projects which have been placed under considering consideration. In addition, the bill authorizes the beginning of work on a number of projects which have been held in abeyance until the conditions attached to the appropriations made for them have been complied with. The amounts thus authorized are upwards of $1,000,000."

"We have a total of between $7,000,000 and $10,000,000 which will be available for river and harbor work during the coming fiscal year. When we consider present financial conditions and the shortage of money for all purposes, private as well as public, this is a fairly satisfactory sum and it is far larger than the average annual appropriations for waterways ten years ago."

or even five years ago.

"Another very important feature of the bill is that it authorizes the Chief of Engineers to make surveys of no less than 207 new projects, many of which are thought to be of very great merit. They are scattered throughout the entire country and this provision of the bill will be especially gratifying to many people in all parts of the United States."

"The bill also provides for re-examination of several very important canals and rivers which, if thoroughly improved, would be most efficient competitors with railroads and regulators of freight rates. Among these are the Indiana Waterway from Norfolk to Hartford, Conn., and the Ohio, Kansas, and Missouri rivers. The purpose of these examinations is to ascertain whether there should be any modification of the present plan of improvement, or any abandonment of the work. There are also in the bill a number of general provisions of much value which cannot be separately described at this time."

"When it is borne in mind that the Indiana Appropriation Bill, carrying more than $11,000,000, and the great Post Office bill, carrying nearly $11,000,000, were both defeated, and provision for these two departments of the Government had to be made by joint resolution extending existing appropriations for another year, it will be seen that the Rivers and Harbors bill has far exceeded what was expected."

"I want to say also that the disaster which befell the Rivers and Harbors bill of 1914 was not the chief cause of the efforts of its friends in Congress, but a series of unfortunate circumstances which delayed action on the measure for several months, followed by the defeat of the awful war in Europe, which has put the state of business depression upon the minds of the people, and the decrease of national revenues due to the war, which made necessary the emergency tax of one percent upon the net income of corporations, and the loss and forced a national reduction in appropriations for river and harbor work."

"One of the most unfortunate features in connection with the last year's

ADULTERATION OF OATS TO BE STOPPED.

Seventy-five carloads of oats intended for export have recently been seized by the Federal authorities because they were found to be adulterated within the meaning of the food and drug act.

The adulteration charged is the addition of feed barley or water, or both, under certain circumstances adulteration in these ways may be so profitable that it is believed to be at times a common practice among grain shippers.

The Government, however, is determined that the practice shall cease at once, and field representatives of the Department of Agriculture at Washington, D. C., have all been directed to examine the almost vast number of detecting future shipments adulterated in this way.

Low grade barley, which is known to the trade as "feed barley," is sometimes mixed with oats when there is a significant difference between the price of the two grains to make this profit.

By and by the horny-handed worker will get what he has earned and the walking delegate.

RUMFORD FALLS PROOF

Should Convince Every Rumford Falls Reader

The frank statement of a neighbor, telling the merits of a remedy, bids you pause and believe.

The same endorsement by some "stranger far away" commands no belief at all.

Here's a Rumford Falls case. A Rumford Falls citizen testifies. Read and be convinced.

Otis W. Burgess, R. F. D. No. 1, Rumford Falls, says: "I had an attack of kidney trouble and sharp pains in my back came on me suddenly while at work. I tried different medicines but nothing seemed to give me relief. I was so bad at times that I couldn't work, and I couldn't straighten without assistance. I could hardly turn in bed, my back felt so sore. I was losing my appetite and getting weak. Dizzy spells bothered me. Don't know Pills, procured at the Cate Pharmacy, cured me and I am now well and strong."

Price 50c at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Donan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Burgess had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

WEST PARIS

Mrs. Lena M. Chase died at the C. M. G. Hospital, Lewiston, Saturday morning, March 13, from the effects of a critical operation performed on Tuesday previous to her death. She was the daughter of the late Henry M. Tuell and Mrs. Melinda (Crawford) Tuell, and was born at North Paris, June 24, 1873. She married C. Everett Chase, who was found dead at the home of his mother at South Paris last August. Two sons, Maynard T. and Raymond E., are left, also one brother, Elmer E. Tuell, who is in a Massachusetts Hospital, where he was taken for mental treatment, but has received no benefit, also Mrs. Lottie Swift Willis, who was reared in the Tuell family. Mrs. Chase was a very kind-hearted woman, always ready to assist in every good enterprise. Mrs. Chase was a member of the Universalist Church, Young Peoples' Christian Union and Sunday School, and held offices in each of the organizations. The funeral was held Monday afternoon at the home, Rev. D. A. Ball officiating. There were beautiful flowers from relatives, friends and church organizations.

Mrs. Lottie Willis of Portland and Mrs. Elmer E. Tuell of Greenwood, Mass., were called here by the illness and death of Mrs. Chase.

Mrs. Levi Shedd is ill from grip.

Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Barden attended the funeral of Mr. Barden's aunt, Mrs. James Bowler, of Bryant's Pond, Wednesday.

The Result of Experience

I have learned during my fourteen years' experience in making automobiles that a high-quality production insures success.

I have also learned that an automobile business requires, to an exceptional degree, the close personal contact of those individually responsible. They must put their whole hearts and minds into their design, their product, and the business policies of their company.

An automobile business cannot be run as successfully on the "executive committee" or "operating council" plan as by individual domination. No matter how sincere or how capable individual members may be, the essential details, the finishing touches that mean real success, are better mastered by an individual than in committee. Singleness of purpose is essential to success.

I have lived with this Briscoe car by day and dreamed of it by night. In it is represented the enthusiasm, the sincerity, the ambition of an engineering corps of high ability, tempered and guided by my manufacturing and commercial experience.

The Briscoe car is not merely an automobile among automobiles—it is a work of art.

If some board of competent judges were to adjudge all automobiles, taking into consideration price, quality, efficiency, style, in fact, all those attributes which are a part of well-rounded goodness, their decision most surely would be that the Briscoe car deserves to be called the most remarkable car of the year.

I do not say this in the manner of one who writes merely what he thinks reads well or one who boasts, but I say it because I know what the Briscoe car is. I know every bolt, every nut, every cotter pin, every part, be it big or little in this car. I know, for example, that every vital and wearing part of the Briscoe car is made of Chrome Vanadium Steel—a steel that contains strength and wearing ability double that of ordinary steel.

In matters that constitute enduring qualities, I know that our engineers and myself have not for one moment let cost interfere with our judgment.

In the Briscoe car design there is comprehended a perfect correlation of parts. When it finally does wear out (and it should wear twice as long, at least, as ordinary cars) it should, theoretically, wear out all at once. For we have striven to make each part as strong as every other part. It has not, for example, a ten-year motor and a six-month axle, and a ten-year body and a two-year transmission. It may justly be called THE CORRELATED DESIGN.

Every quality has been provided which the production of 65,000 automobiles by me in the past has shown to be desirable, and likewise every doubt has been eliminated.

We, who have designed this Briscoe car, have gone through the life of the industry. We know, therefore, not alone from scientific calculation, not alone from the study of French and other European designs, not alone from spending over a year in our own Paris laboratory studying European cars—but we know from as large a fund of personal experience as is possessed by any other set of men in the industry.

We offer the Briscoe car, sincerely believing it to be:

THE CAR OF HIGHEST QUALITY.
THE CAR OF REFINEMENT,
THE CAR OF PRIDE OF OWNERSHIP,
THE CAR OF CHARM AND BEAUTY.

It is not our purpose to make an enormous quantity; only such a number as to give us an economical production basis. We will be able to sell many more than we can make, but what we want is to sell Briscoe cars to those who are not satisfied with "Any old car." We expect that Briscoe owners will constitute the aristocracy of motorists, to belong to which will be the hallmark of judgment, the proof of taste and discrimination.

to night service. B. H. G. has a population of 4159 with 101 New England telephones. They have night service. This town has a population of 308 telephones, they have night service. This town is half the size of the other towns, but is well supplied with twice as many New England telephones.

There has no night service with the town of 1935 and 47 New England telephones. They are a good deal on their telephone service.

The town of Hebron, with a population of only 491 has all night service. Why is this? The answer is, 25 telephones on a central station. Academy having no telephones. No night service.

There is a town which has a population of 1000 and they have 96 telephones on a central station. Oxford, although having a population of 1841 and 93 telephones, still has no night service. The real basis have no night service.

There is a town of P. M. which has a population of 1000 and they have 123 telephones on a central station. They have no night service at meal hours and the service and not interfere with the others and after four months of the arrangement the Maine Tel. & Tel. Co. resolved not to again take the arrangement of their office into. I agree to do so with the understanding that I should have a lease of the property.

On the first day I took possession with 22 subscribers and the business has increased to its present number. Gentlemen, you must realize that I speak truthfully when I assure you that I cannot buy many clocks or bells from the net revenue of the telephone business and I still have to engage in other business, for while everything else has increased in cost the telephone rentals remain the same.

The telephone today is not a luxury but a necessity and may be obtained for the small sum of 4 or 5 cents per day, an amount which is of no great importance to the average man.

To you gentlemen who have not the telephone in your homes or places of business let me enumerate the advantages.

You may close a business deal quick-

ALL DOORS CLOSED TO THE WHITE HOUSE.

President Wilson has practically become a hermit these days, since he has denied himself to all visitors. For three weeks he will give his entire attention to a study of intricate problems connected with the European War. This is the first time in the memory of the oldest Washingtonian when the President has entirely excluded the public. Of course this is the first time there has been so big a war, and as the United States has been involved in many ways, the President has determined that he will take personal

DEATH OF COLONEL CROOK.
A faithful old attaché in the White House has died, and the President of the United States, who on account of important affairs has secluded himself from the public, found time to attend the funeral. Colonel William H. Crook served with Lincoln and all of the other Presidents down to the present day. He undoubtedly had a more intimate knowledge of the affairs of the President and their families during the past fifty years than any other living man.

PUBLIC LANDS OPENED.
During the first two and a half months of the present year 1,971,830 acres of public land have been released to entry and 52,840 acres have been withdrawn. The withdrawals have been chiefly for the protection of water power sites.

THE SPY INDUSTRY.
Since the outbreak of the European war there have been no end of activities of spies of foreign powers in the United States, and as Washington is the headquarters of the nation, the principal attention of these foreign agents has been directed toward the seat of government. Washington has been described as the "clearing house of conspiracies of the world." The United States Government has ignored the spies, but has concealed itself regarding the safety of the representa-
